

CODESPACE SCHOLARSHIPS CONDITIONS

CODESPACE offers a scholarship program for its students with the aim of promoting technological training as well as the specialization of professionals. Currently there are three types of scholarships; however, other scholarships could be created:

Outstanding Student given to the best performing students through the progression of the course, in order to promote the talent and hard work of the students.

CODESPACE Women aimed at promoting, encouraging, and developing qualified profiles for women in the Tech world.

Raffle To encourage student participation in courses and in the CODESPACE Community.

The specific conditions of each scholarship (type of scholarship, endowment, and application period) will be established by CODESPACE at any time through the website www.codespaceacademy.com.

All scholarships offered by CODESPACE will be subject to the following CONDITIONS:

1. The application for a scholarship implies the acceptance of these conditions, as well as the particular conditions of that scholarship.
2. To apply and obtain a scholarship, it is required that the student is enrolled in the course which correctly responds to the scholarship applied for.
3. The granting of the scholarship entitles the student to a total or partial discount of the cost of reservation and enrollment of the course in question, according to the particular conditions of the scholarship.
4. Scholarships are not transferable to another person, nor can they be accumulated.
5. CODESPACE will create a commission to evaluate the applications received, which will analyze the records and the trajectory of the applicant students. The award criteria will mainly take into account the applicants' projection, qualification, and their innovative trajectories in the technological field. In the case of "Raffle" scholarships, the commission will be limited to making the draw from the applicant pool.
6. The granting of scholarships will be resolved within a maximum period of fifteen days, from the end of the application period, and will become public within a period of ten days on the CODESPACE website.

7. CODESPACE reserves the right to not award any scholarship in case the evaluation commission finds that the minimum standards of quality have not been reached by the applicant students.
8. The student who, having obtained a scholarship, for any reason, ceases to be enrolled in the course before its completion, will automatically lose the scholarship right and must satisfy the cost of reservation and enrollment for the course in its entirety. The student will have the right to renounce the scholarship.
9. CODESPACE may revoke the granting of the scholarship in case of inappropriate behavior from the student, breach of the obligations contracted, or falsification in the student's CV.
10. The Student expressly authorizes CODESPACE to include their image and voice in any audiovisual support for reproduction and exploitation in promotional and commercial purposes for CODESPACE, including on social networks, as a consequence of the participation or obtainment of the scholarship, without time or geographic limits.
